additional artist residency programs are being brought. Also Luther Burbank High School. Also expanding and offering summer camp to Elder Creek Elementary. Keeping small and intentional at this point to maximize the resources and to give students a really concentrated effort. Before CLARA grows, really need to see how they fit into a strategic plan among the district. Member Pritchett likes to recommend they reach out to the city of Rancho Cordova because they have Grant funding through their Measure H Funding. How does CLARA measure the impact? Emili responds it's her hope that when they build a strategic plan in the district, data is integrated with a really thoughtful integration program. It is beyond the academic and attendance evaluation but also looking at social and emotional learning and growth. With CLARA they have been contracting with an outside evaluation consultant who has helped streamline and fine tune the data they want to be collecting and how to share with the can't ignore the fiscal challenges of all this and requirements and mandates that are put on this District for serving special education students. We only get partially funded from the Federal and State Government. We know and need to be honest, it costs more money to educate a special education student than it does for a general education student. There is limitless amount of resources that every one of our students wants and needs. How are we going to balance the cost with that? Agrees we need more than one presentation on this and this wasn't an effective presentation. Would support a full Board meeting on this topic. A lot of work needs to be done. Member Cochrane as complex and intricate this is, it is very important to address the problem and address it specifically. Our Superintendent wants to stay positive, he wants to focus on problems and solutions. This is not going to be easy. The laws of special education have rolled through and we have not kept up with them. Gathering of data and tracking whether jobs have been done or not done are a perfect way to solve this. Very much support the Superintendent. Knows he will address this problem without negativity and in a positive way.

Would like to ask what does it mean when I'm reading that the Board is going to be...
