Vision

Sincethe gold rushSacramento has been a city focused on discovery. The puesternt years to improve schools has been no different: A diverse community has challenged assumptions attempt to discover a path to excellence in public education. This compact between the Sacramento City Unified School District and the Sacramentœ Cer Community is a significant step forward in finding that path. It represents a caring community sharing a promise:

- That all children ±those from elegant homes in leafy neighborhoods and those decidedly less privileged±attend schools at which theyalrn.
- That all children ±regardless of race, ethnicity, income or abilityraduate from high school without educational disadvantages. They graduate ready for adult life.
- That all educators are dedicated to continuous improve mendeting better atteaching so that children get better at learning.

The foundation for this vision is being forged through Heigh-Performing School Compact, a document that asks the community to commit to true collaboration and to the principle that all children deserve a great education. Just as children are different, schools should be different. One size does not fit all.

This Compactcalls for Sacramento City Unified to become a district where piegforming
